

The working lives of gig economy couriers are hectic, complex and often unfair.

Couriers also enjoy parts of the work.

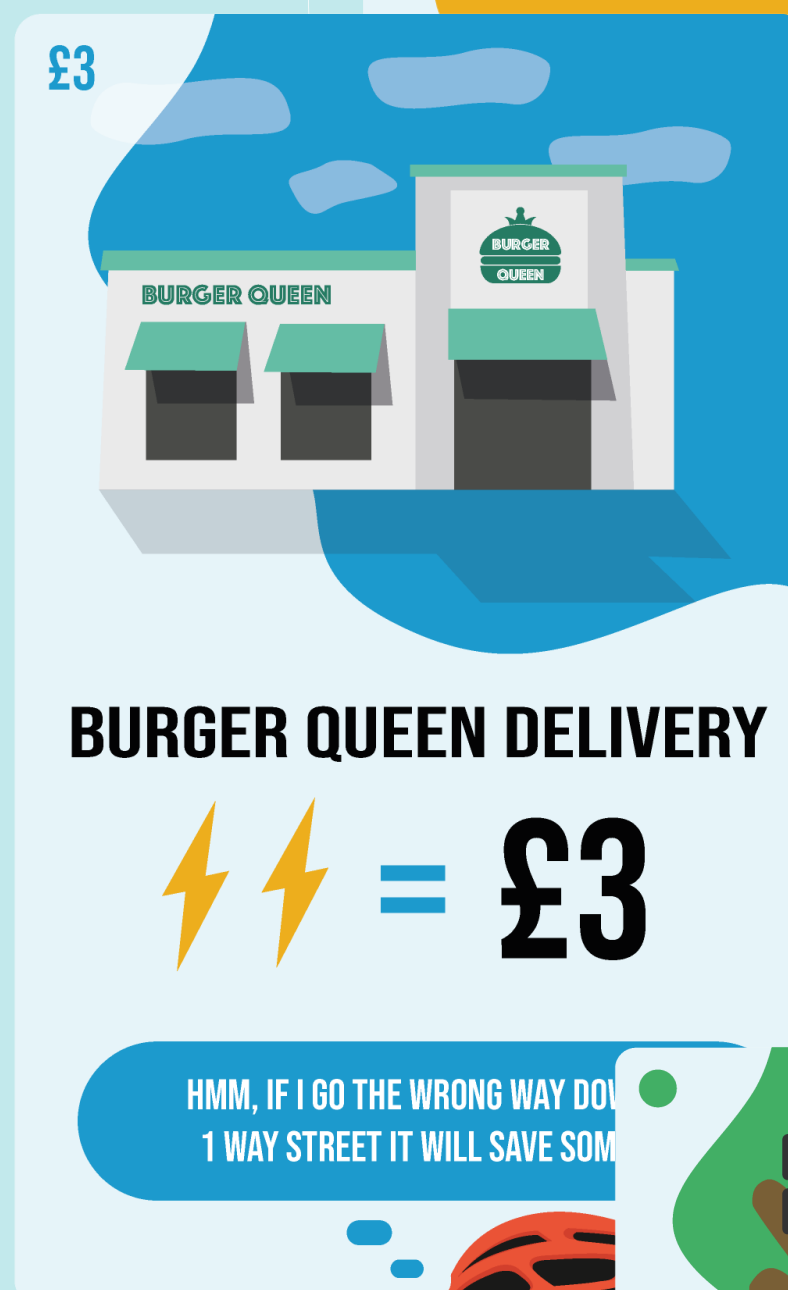

Workers provide an essential service throughout Covid-19.

Meal Deal is a card game influenced by fieldwork in Manchester, York and Edinburgh that simulates their 'lived experience'.

NO ENERGY

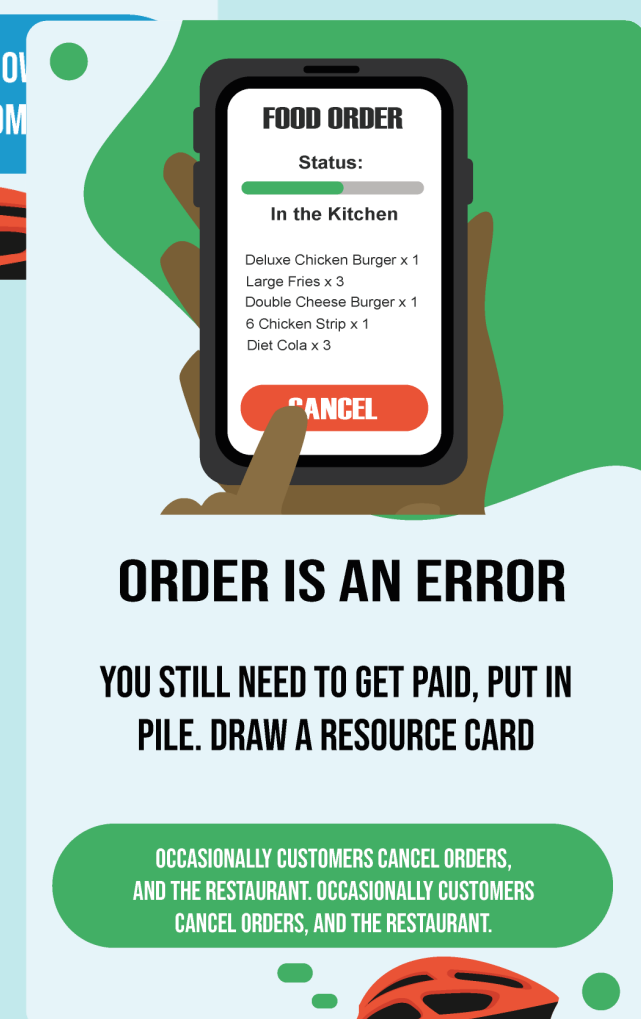

ALL THIS FOOD MAKES ME HUNGRY

BURGER QUEEN DELIVERY

⚡⚡ = £3

HMM, IF I GO THE WRONG WAY DOWN
1 WAY STREET IT WILL SAVE SOME ENERGY

ORDER IS AN ERROR

YOU STILL NEED TO GET PAID, PUT IN
PILE. DRAW A RESOURCE CARD

OCCASIONALLY CUSTOMERS CANCEL ORDERS,
AND THE RESTAURANT. OCCASIONALLY CUSTOMERS
CANCEL ORDERS, AND THE RESTAURANT.

Turn over the top card of the job deck so all players can see. Job cards describe the energy required and value (£). You may choose to reject this job, other players can pick this up on their turn. If you reject this job, leave the card face up in front of you for other players. Immediately pay the cost of the job in energy to the energy discard pile. Some energy cards are higher value than others. No change is given. If you cannot afford the energy cost, you may not complete this job. Draw an 'event card'; events represent the uncertainty of gig work.

